

NOAH

10 Months Old

Diagnosed with Acute Myeloid Leukemia
in June 2018 at Age 7 Months

In the final week of June (2018), our comfortable home life and our sense of security was ripped from us when our 7 month-old son, Noah Mitchell, was diagnosed with Acute Myeloid Leukemia. The rippling effect this diagnosis had was unbelievable and has proved to be a serious challenge for us all.

The fight little Noah is up against is a large one, and he has only begun on this long journey to a normal life. In the short term, he's had nine bone biopsies, several blood transfusions, and now has an IV line direct to his heart to pump chemotherapy, blood, and fluids. He will be in and out of the hospital for the next several months as his condition progresses and the treatment continues.

We ask for your help to celebrate Noah and his incredible strength and courageousness in his fight for his life against cancer, as it will be a long and tiresome one and he will need help.

BOARD SPONSORED BY

Think about all the smiling faces you have helped while you run or walk!

